Payment for your trainee licence

Payment will be taken from your account as soon as your application has been received. This does not indicate that your application has been successful. If it is refused we will issue you with a full refund.

Issue of a trainee licence

Please note that it should not be assumed that you will automatically be issued with a trainee licence once you have applied. Applications can be refused by the Registrar if they do not meet the necessary requirements. To be eligible for a trainee licence you must have passed the theory and driving ability parts of the entrance tests within the last two years, and not used up the maximum three attempts you are allowed at the instructional ability test (Part 3). You must also continue to be a "fit and proper" person.

Please note that your trainee licence becomes invalid if you fail your Part 3 for a third time or your two year qualifying period expires. It would then be illegal for you to give any more paid instruction and to do so could lead to prosecution

We will usually issue only one trainee licence. This will last for six months. The licence is to help you get practical experience of giving driving instruction, which may help you to pass the instructional ability test. If, for any reason, you stop giving driving tuition during the term of your licence, return it to us straight away with a covering letter explaining your circumstances.

If you need to change schools, you need to complete a new form with the new details. Your new trainer must also complete the Declaration of Manager/Owner section. You should then send the form and a recent passport style photograph to:

Driving Standards Agency, The Axis Building, 112 Upper Parliament Street, Nottingham, NG1 6LP.

No further additional fee is needed.

Conditions of issue:

The issue of trainee licences is governed by The Motor Cars (Driving Instruction) Regulations 2005 (as amended). The conditions for issue include:

- Within two years of passing your Part 1 of the qualifying examination, you must also have passed your Part 2 within a maximum of three attempts, and have had no more than two attempts at Part 3, the test of instructional ability
- you must have received at least 40 hours training in the six months before the date of your first application for a trainee licence
- if you have chosen the supervision option, you must receive supervision from your trainer for 20% of all lessons you give
- if you have chosen the additional training option, you must receive at least 20 hours further training in the topics covered in the training programme within the first three months of the licence or before you take your part 3, whichever is the sooner. At least 25% of the training must be practical in-car training. You must also receive a further five hours' training if you fail your first or second attempt at the Part 3.
- you must receive either the supervision or additional training whilst your licence is still valid
- you must not advertise yourself as if you are a fully qualified instructor
- you are a "fit and proper" person.

Character details:

So that we can assess if you continue to be a "fit and proper" person, you must tell us about any motoring or non-motoring offences (including fixed penalties and cautions) that you may have been convicted of or awarded since you applied for registration as a potential driving instructor. We are entitled by law to ask you to declare spent as well as unspent convictions.

You must also tell us if you are now or ever have been a registered sex offender and/or been disqualified from working with children in any way.

If you have declared an offence you should give full details on a separate sheet, including how it happened. It will help the Registrar to make a quicker decision.

Please note that we may contact the relevant court or organisation to check any declarations you have made. We may also require you to obtain a criminal record disclosure.

If you are disqualified from working with children, it is an offence for you to apply for a trainee licence or to become an Approved Driving Instructor.
